Commissioners,

It is with mixed emotions that we read this a.m. in the Kingman Daily Miner that Truxton Canyon Water Company will have their hearing on January 18 & 19 of next year. This seems just more of the same injustice rather than justice being served to the end users of water from Truxton Canyon Water Company. There is an old adage that 'the wheels of justice move slowly.'

The litany of 'Counts' against the Neals that has dragged on for a decade or more begs to be dealt with speedily. Yet the Governmental agencies bound to enforce the rules and requirements for 'public utilities' seem to be at the mercy of the machinations of lawyers paid to delay and play games with the system.

On good legal advice from a past ACC lawyer it is clear that the Neals have proven themselves masters of playing games with the agencies designed to oversee them. We have been advised that even if a hearing is finally held, the judge could take five to twelve months to make a final decision. (If the judge in this case is overloaded why are not other judges engaged to take part of her load??? We fear that the Neals will continue to request delays or postponements, waiting for you to just give up).

How long must the customers of Truxton Canyon Water Company be subject to their mismanagement and the potential dangers of their deteriorating delivery system, providing arsenic laden water. Words fail to describe our frustration with the system of justice and oversight that seems nearly paralyzed.

Please do not let this matter drag on.

Respectfully,

William E. & Marv L. Meehan
